Conclusions

- Spike trains could be efficiently inferred from noisy Ca-imaging

- Rate-based decoding is ~10% more accurate than Ca-based

- Trial-shuffling does not significantly change the decoder performance